

NO DRY WAVES AROUND THIS SHIP NEW YEAR'S EVE

Scandinavian Liner, With 192 Aboard, Wet Both Inside and Out.

From the happy oasis that he almost anywhere beyond the three-mile limit, the Scandinavian-American Line steamer United States (a name that horribly misfits the dear old boat) came to dock at Hoboken this morning with 192 passengers, most of whom regretted that they could not offer their friends at the pier the sort of refreshment that had been abundant at sea.

They had Scotch. They had nine kinds of wine. They had cognac. They had—but why break the heart of wood-alcohol New York? Suffice to say they had enough.

And Mrs. Carl Sorensen, en route with her husband and two children to the Virgin Isles, was smoking a beautiful brown cigar on deck when the boat jumped the pier.

"I like cigars," she said. "Cigarettes? Bah!"

At her side was little Miss Karen Sorensen, ten, who has done more sea travel than some members in good standing of the United States Navy.
"This little girl," said her mother, "is just finishing her tenth trip across the Atlantic—five round trips. We live at St. Croix, but we go back to Denmark every now and then."

And she flicked the black ash from her cigar.

A poet who ought to be financing governments was another passenger.
His name is Hans Hartzig, and he is travelling around the world with his bride.

"I didn't know how I was going to finance the trip," he said, "until an idea struck me. Then I went to a lot of people and told them I was going to write a book of poems and that I would sell autograph copies in advance at $100 a copy. I got 100 orders, paid in advance, which let me see—about $10,000, isn't it?"

Capt. N. E. Abernathy and six other officers of the steamship Kerwood, which hit a mine in the North Sea and sank Dec. 1, were on board.
The other members of the crew came home on other ships.

Christopher E. Norager, a Chicago machinery exporter, who has been visiting in Norway, said every one there seemed to be satisfied with the kind of prohibition that is enforced in that country. Whiskey is prohibited, but champagne, light wines and real beer are abundant.

"And they don't seem to care for wood alcohol there," he added.

Estate to Churches and Charities.

Nearly all of the $103,750 estate of
I. Zachariah Jellison, late of 44 South Oxford Place, Brooklyn, the appraisal of which was filed to-day in the Surrogate Court in that borough, is to be divided among churches and charities in Brooklyn and the testator's native State of Maine. Of the total amount, $71,675 is apportioned equally among the Y. M. C. A. of Brooklyn and the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of Portland, Me. The largest bequest is one of $5,000, to the Brooklyn Home for Crippled Children. The Home for Aged Couples and Old Men in Brooklyn gets $2,000 and the Patten Public Library, at Bath, Me., $2,000.

Marred Boxes of Stationery Half Price—and Less

The containers of this high-grade stationery were broken, marred or soiled during the Christmas rush.
The paper itself is fresh—of unusually fine quality and good looks. A genuine stationery bargain!
